THE JOURNAL OF BIOLAW & BUSINESS (BioLaw) is a quarterly, international publication for biotechnology and pharmaceutical executives, attorneys, biomedical researchers, regulatory and policy analysts, investors, and other professionals involved in the biotechnology and life science sectors.

In the forefront of a new era, BioLaw provides practical guidance, expert insights, and substantive analysis of 21st century biotechnology and life science law, business, regulatory and policy matters.

Published quarterly, with topic-specific supplements and electronic updates, BioLaw offers timely reporting, thoughtful analysis, case studies and practical solutions to present issues and future concerns in these emerging fields. It is designed for those who want to stay ahead of rapidly changing innovations.

BioLaw's distinguished advisors and authors offer "real world" perspectives and the practical tools necessary to meet your profession's toughest challenges.

It's the first interdisciplinary publication of its kind to help you:

- Keep track of emerging scientific, legal, business, regulatory and policy developments
- Gain a better understanding of client and consumer needs
- Communicate more effectively about key topics of importance
- Shape responsible 21st century biotechnology and life science policy
- Benefit from the perspectives and practical guidance of leaders in their fields

To stay current, have the latest developments in biotechnology and life science law, business, regulation, and policy delivered to your office, library, or home for easy reference. Stay current on essential developments that you might otherwise miss, and join the global BioLaw & Business community.
